WASHINGTON

SATURDAY AFTERNOON, OCTOBER 11:

The removal of our printing office has so far deranged its affairs as to render an apology necessary for our meagre columns to-day. We shall have all right for our next.

"Direct Trade" --- The Macon Conven-

As this body will soon meet to take some step or recommend some plan in relation to the great movement of Direct Trade, it may not be amiss to give the outlines of the whole subject, and offer a few suggestions for the reflection of our Southern friends.

The object to be attained is a direct commu nication between the continent of Europe and the southern ports in relation to trade generally. It must be borne constantly in mind, that an equal, just, and direct exchange commercially is the great consideration. This will embrace not only the cotton interest, but the rice, tobacco, wool, cotton yarns, wool in a rough stage of manufacture; also, the lumber interest, mercantile and shipping, the investment of money in our internal improvements, &c., &c.

It has been proposed to concentrate the cotton at some one point; but this is not advisable, as it would create at once such local difficulties as would ruin the whole undertaking. Let each State and seaport have a fair chance; and let those who have the most energy and afford the best facilities reap their due reward. There is nothing like healthy competition. It has been proposed, also, to concentrate the cotton abroad. This is also futile, for the same reasons. Let Liverpool keep that portion of the trade necessary to supply her own manufacturers; and let that portion consumed on the continent go direct to the continent-in other words, establish a continental depot, and if necessary, two.

It has been proposed (to obviate one of the difficulties) to form an extensive company and let the planters combine to throw their cotton into the several southern ports according to the capacity of each, and to make the manufacturers seek our shores to purchase. This plan is very good, except in one of its features, and that a very important one-that is, the transferring the ownership here from the planters or their agents to a foreign purchaser. It will be seen at a glance that this would make a transferable monopoly: for the crops, passing into the hands of these agents, would of course be subject to their direction, and place the consumers abroad perfectly at the mercy of speculators, destroying their faith and confidence in the planter. The result would be worse than the present state of things. Besides this, a direct importation of merchandise from Europe is desired, instead of buying in New York. Now, if this cotton should be sold in our own ports, the means of transportation would be at the choice of foreigners, and therefore prevent an exchange of commodities, which is the object and soul of trade, and which cannot be done without mutual facilities and confidence.

We must by all means so arrange our trade as to enable vessels to sail from Europe direct as well as to Europe direct. This we think is clear. And in thus transferring the principle of open trade and direct intercourse upon our great staple of cotton as a basis, what becomes of our rice, tobacco, wool, cotton yarns, lumber, shipping, &c.? And shall we buy our groceries, hardware, and merchandise, generally at the North? . There is also involved in this consideration a mighty interest, and one that will, before many years, have a deciding influence upon the commerce of the northern and southern continents of America. This interest will receive its first stimulus from the building up in the gulf of Mexico a shipping interest exclusively for the gulf. By reference to the map it will be seen that the States bordering on the gulf of Mexico and the resources they command will work is completed. well sustain a shipping interest designed exclusively for the gulf. By connecting the gulf with the Atlantic by means of railways-say from Cedar Key to Sayannah or Charleston-vou obtain completely and fully what is sought for in the acquisition of Cuba, and, we sincerely be-Heve, on better terms and under safer circum-

This connexion would at once build up a gulf squadron, for it is well known that the approach from the Atlantic to the gulf is expensive, dilatory and dangerous, especially for sail-vessels. And further, that after they have entered the gulf, the largest steamers and sail-vessels (and which are necessary for Atlantic navigation) find it difficult to enter our harbors. This has long been one of the greatest obstacles to the commercial independence of the gulf. Now, a medium of communication across Florida would obtic depot, and receive the cargoes from the gulf, brought together at some point on the gulf, (say Cedar Key,) and be transported across by York to the isthmus would be broken up, and steamboat floating upon the ocean." the South have the complete control of this great commerce. And why should she not have it? What peculiar right has New York and Boston to monopolize, through the waters at the very foot of the South, her natural rights? It is also known that vessels with inward and outward cargoes are often delayed, from the uncertainty of the winds, and other causes, in and about the gulf. This would also be obviated by the establishment of a gulf shipcollateral interests involved, and the stimulus to labor, capital, and every kind of enterprise she is passe. that would enure to the Southern States. These Trade, if successful; and it therefore becomes and old.

a grave matter of consideration whether, merely promote the present interests of any one staple of the South, we should lose all the others above named, and eventually that which we aimed at. The South must promote her shipping interest -her gulf squadron -her rice, tobacco, wool, lumber-and accommodate her own merchants by the interchange of commodities with the rest of the world. This is not to be done by concentrating and selling there the great staple and basis of all this tradecotton. We would respectfully suggest that by eccepting the part of the plan proposed which forms a "Planter's combined Company" there, to throw large quantities of Southern produce for this purpose into the respective Southern ports, and by accepting the proposition made by Holland to form an extensive "trading company with the Southern States of North America," and letting that company act as your friends, under your directions and exclusively for your interest, a perfect and successful effort would at once be made. Let Holland furnish the money, the South cotton. Let the Southern planters control their produce, having it consigned through the agency of their friends abroad, either to Antwerp, Rotterdam, Havre, Bremen, Hamburg, or Amsterdam. This would ensure success: for, under the present regulations of trade, consignments can be made in any part of the world by a city entirely remote. The great object for the South to attain is the moneyed alliance of Holland, and then, through her commercial influence, geographical position, credit and extended correspondence, to distribute her produce as may be best, receiving from every part of the world our merchandise in exchange. The alliance should good faith and mutual confidence. The States of North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas, Georgia, Florida, and Louisiana have gone into this movement, and the results, if the thing is properly managed, will be of the greatest importance, and of the happiest character to the South and Southwest. By adopting the plan proposed above, an immediate beginning could be made, and it could progress either gradually or rapidly; and a beginning is of the utmost importance. A few hundred thousand bales of cotton, with rice, lumber, wool, and cotton yarns, could be shipped this fall, and, in the meantime, the final arrangements for a more general and determined movement could be made. We have heard this matter fully discussed by persons of intelligence and information, in favor of Direct Trade and against it; and the opinion of all is, that such an organization would succeed.

For ourselves, we recommend it from an earnest desire for the success of the cause, and from a sincere conviction that it is the best plan; for it is the blending of different plans in their best parts, the promoting of every interest, and is candid, just, and fair to all. And another great consideration at this time is this: that this plan embraces the views and opinions of the best merchants of Europe; has been the subject of much negotiation and discussion for nearly a year under the most favorable circumstances; and has been agreed upon in Europe by our friends there, and will, if accepted by the South, go into immediate operation. While, if the matter is postponed, a year or two years will be lost in talking and arranging, in the meanwhile giving the planters time to get cool, or be approached from other quarters and led astray. It has always been so. We would, therefore, say, that that which is to be done, should be done quickly. Strike while the iron is hot, and use those means you have, and make a commencement, leaving the extension of your plan to go on in the meanwhile. The foundation is always laid before the house is built; therefore, lay the foundation of your trade in im- to let her niggers move off toward Symmes's mediate action by actual and direct consign- Hole! ments to your friends abroad, and in the meanwhile push on your advantages until the whole

We have never yet made an error in the publication of any fact of interest, though it has often been our fortune to give publicity to such items "in advance of all contemporaries," as that bodies of men were organizing within our the phrase runs. There has searcely been an limits for that purpose. Under these circumappointment of any consequence for many months, respecting which we have not given the first intimations. In almost all such cases these facts have been transmitted abroad by telegraph without credit, although the morning papers of this city receive due credit for like information whenever derived from their columns.

> A MISTAKE OF OURS. - A lady has to-day called upon us to say that the gentleman who stares at the ladies at market is not good-looking. The man who puffs cigar-smoke in peoples' faces was on duty this morning, with a shocking long-nine between his teeth.

NEW BOOT AND SHOE STORE .- We would call the attention of our readers to the new and beautiful Shoe Store just fitted up by Mr. J. M. JOHNSON, in one of Duvall & Bro.'s new and elegant store-rooms, Pennsylvania avenue, between 44 and 6th streets, where can be seen some of the finest specimens of mechanism, in his line, that we have looked upon for many a day. Mr. J. is a thorough-going business man, and he seems to have spared no trouble or expense in fitting up his store in such a manner of business in the city. He has also procured der Richards, and William H. Carey as candithe services of Mr. H. E. Marselas, one of the dates for the State Senate; and resolved that and gentlemen, and judge for yourselves. THE MILITARY ASYLUM .- We see it stated that the commissioners have selected as a site for the Military Asylum, which has been confirmed by the President, the place north of Washington, lately owned by John A. Smith, esq., and containing about one hundred and ifty acres. The price paid for it is $40,000.

LETTER FROM HON. GEO. M. DALLAS .- The lalveston News, of the 23d ult., contains a letter from ex-Vice-President Dallas, dated 25th July last, to Hon. Guy M. Bryan, Texas, with what appears to be an admission of the failure of the compromise measures, and a proposition to decide the slavery question, once for all, by an amendment of the constitution.

FRIENDLY SUGGESTION .- A writer in the Phildelphia Sun asks to be permitted "to suggest o the United States authorities, that the Pennsylvania Society of Abolition fanatics is now holding a convention at West Chester; and that, if Messrs. Kline, Cadwalader and Ingram were sent there to note their sayings, with a sufficient 'military force' in reserve, a large On the 15th we were visited by a fleet of 219 fishand valuable addition might be made to the in- ermen. SIGNOR BLITZ .- Vast multitudes attend the erformances of this remarkable man. Yesteray about four hundred scholars of the public chools, the orphans of the Roman Catholic Asylum, (by invitation,) and others, were present. This is the last day. He exhibits in the afternoon and evening. He has not only entertained the Orphan's schools of the city gratuitously, but has to-day divided $45 among the two schools and the Ladies' Union Benevolent Society. He has a kind, good heart, has Signor Blitz.

It will be seen by a notice in another column that a mounted volunteer company is bout to be formed in this city.

LAWYERS RISING!-The Pennsylvanian says that S. E. French, esq., of Juniata, is not only a good lawyer, but an excellent editor. So is Col. Forney.

THE MILITARY SPIRIT .- South Carolina has for many months given earnest attention to the preparation of her military forces, and a succession of encampments have been made with great gravity. The Columbia South Carolinian of the 8th says:

"The Fourth Brigade held their encampment near Society Hill last week. His excellency Governor Means, Generals Harlice and Blakeny were present, and drilled the camp in strictly military style the whole week-indeed the sen tinels' challenge, the patrole call, and the guardhouse exercises forcibly reminded us of the warlike spirit of the times, and made us reflect upon the probabilities of these mimic exercises being changed to stern realities, when, in the place of blank powder cartridges being fired at intruders, leaden messengers would lacerate and destroy the nightly visiter."

It is unkind thus to frighten the rest of us; and if South Carolina don't ston it we shall have

REVOLUTION IN NORTHERN MEXICO. - The Intelligencer of this morning says:

"The first accounts of the insurrection that has broken out in the Mexican States on our border led to the belief that many American citizens had taken an active part in it, and even direct our military commanders on that frontier to exert themselves to prevent any invasion by our citizens of the soil of a friendly Republi But, from more recent intelligence, it would seem that this precaution, however proper, was unnecessary, as it appears that very few Amercan citizens took part in the insurrection, and that it was planned and conducted almost exclusively by citizens of Mexico."

Yet the Union is asking why the President's proclamation has not been issued with reference to this movement? And it even suggests that it is because poor, distracted, helpless Mexico has no such friends as France and England to guaranty her territories to her! Shame on the Union for such uncharitableness!

GEORGIA.-The following, we believe, will compose the delegation from this State: First district .- Joseph W. Jackson, Southern

BETTER THAN GOLD !

PORTSMOUTH, July 9, 1851.
Mr. J. E. BOUSH—Dear Sir: I feel it a duty to make known the benefit I have derived from Dr. Hampton's VEGETABLE TINCTURE. For a number of years I suffered from disease, but to a greater degree for the last three years. One of the forms of my disease was dyspepsia. From this dreadful malady I suffered to such an ex-tent that life was really a burden. The attack of it on me was different to that on any other person of whom I have heard; at times it was like the palpitation of the heart; there was a constant thumping and beating withheart; there was a constant thumping and beating without intermission about the region of my heart, chest, and stomach; some of the attacks would last for weeks; my stomach was much distended, with constant pain, great weakness, and constination of the boweis. I could not eat the most simple food without pain. I also suffered greatly from disease of the kidneys, with constant pain in the back, that I could walk only with great difficulty.
I tried nearly all of the most celebrated patent medicines of the day, but found no relief. I had also the best medical attendance. One of my nysicions fearly to the well-

I tried nearly all of the most celebrated patent medicines of the day, but found no relief. I had also the best medical attendance. One of my physicians frankly told me it was of no use for me to be paying him for advice, as he could do me no good. I gave up almost in despair, and thought my disease certainly incurable.

At this juncture I heard of Hampton's Vegetable Tincture. I refused to give it a trial, although persuaded by my friends, until my son purchased a few hottles, and requested me to try it; after taking it a few times, it had a most happy effect on me; my confidence increased, and after taking three bottles, my dyspepsia, or disease of the stomach, was nearly if not entirely cured. I now feel myself a new man, and in better health than for years. I am certain the cure in my case was made by this Hampton's Vegetable Tincture alone. Since my cure I have recommended the tincture to a number of my friends, who have also been relieved by it. Some of the cures have been as rapid and equally wonderful as mine.

I present my respects to Messrs. Mortimer & Mowbray, the proprietors of this valuable medicine, and say to them its value is above price; and from my cure, and what I have seen of its effects on others, I shall ever feel it my duty to recommend it to the suffering. I have no doubt many valuable lives will be prolonged by its ass. I hope the afflicted will cast aside their prejudices and give it a trial. Yours most respectfully,

(Signed)

JOHN LUEE.

trial. Yours most respectfully, (Signed) JOHN LUKE.

The above is extracted from a letter from a gentleman sixty years of age, and of high character. He says: "I, have given but a faint idea of my sufferings; I feel inadequate to the task." We also have received, in the last few days, letters from two of our most worthy and well-known citizens, giving two remafkable cures of spinal disease. But yesterday one of the oldest merchants reported that he was enred of neuralgia of the head, of years standing, and so bad that his teeth fell out from its effects. Call and see letters. Was there ever so many cures, wonderful cures, made by any other medicine. All we ask of the afflicted is that they try Hampton's Vegetable Tincture, the great parifier of the blood and cure for all chronic diseases, as dyspepsia, rheumatism, scrofula, and all complaints of the stomach, bowels, &c.
